

"John XXIII provided myself and my family with a quality education that has prepared us well for college and beyond. When graduating with a teaching degree, I knew quickly that it was the atmosphere in which I would love to start my career."

Beth (Kleingers) Harrison, John XXIII Class of 1997

As a graduate of John XXIII and Fenwick, I am pleased and proud to have the chance to give back to the community that has supported me throughout my life. I feel there is no better way to do this than by teaching, and I value the opportunity to have a hand in the academic and religious education of a new generation. I look forward to each new day working with my students, anticipating the challenges, triumphs, and surprises that will come our way.
